DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. Determining the intent of Congress is a large part of tax research. p. 2-1
2. The many gray areas, the complexity of the tax laws, and the possibility for different interpretations of the tax law create the necessity of alternatives for structuring a business transaction. p. 2-1
5. The income tax laws are found in Title 26 of the U.S. Code in Subtitle A. p. 2-4

Dear Mr. Bishop:

This letter is in response to your request about information concerning a conflict between a U.S. treaty with Spain and a section of the Internal Revenue Code. The major reason for treaties between the U.S. and certain foreign countries is to eliminate double taxation and to render mutual assistance in tax enforcement.

Section 7852(d) provides that if a U.S. treaty is in conflict with a provision in the Code, neither will take general precedence. Rather, the more recent of the two will have precedence. In your case, the French treaty takes precedence over the Code section.

A taxpayer must disclose on the tax return any positions where a treaty overrides a tax law. There is a $1,000 penalty per failure to disclose for individuals and a $10,000 penalty per failure for corporations.

Should you need more information, feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

Alice Hanks, CPA
Tax Partner

8. Since Regulations interpret the Code, they are arranged in the same sequence as the Code. Regulations are prefixed by a number that designates the type of tax or administrative, procedural, or definitional matter to which they relate. These Regulations would be cited as follows with subparts added for further identification. The subparts have no correlation with the subsections in the Code.

   a. Reg. § 1.152.
   d. Reg. § 1.1501.

   p. 2-6

9. In many Code sections, Congress has given to the “Secretary or his delegate” the authority to prescribe Regulations to carry out the details of administration or otherwise to complete the prevailing administrative rules. Under such circumstances, it almost could be said that Congress is delegating its legislative powers to the Treasury Department. Regulations that are issued pursuant to this type of authority truly possess the force and effect of law and often are called “legislative” Regulations. Examples of “legislative” Regulations include those that address consolidated returns issued under §§ 1501 through 1505 and those that addressed the debt/equity question issued under § 385 (withdrawn).

   Legislative Regulations are to be distinguished from “interpretive” Regulations, which purport to rephrase and elaborate on the meaning (i.e., intent of Congress) of a particular Code Section. An example of interpretive Regulations are those issued under § 1031 for like-kind exchanges.

   Procedural Regulations are “housekeeping-type” instructions indicating information that taxpayers should provide to the IRS as well as information about the management and conduct of the IRS itself.

   The need to distinguish between these three types of Regulations relates to their validity as a tax law source.

   pp. 2-25 to 2-27

11. The items would probably be ranked as follows (from lowest to highest):

   (1) Letter ruling (valid only to the taxpayer to whom issued).
   (2) Proposed Regulation (most courts ignore Proposed Regs.).
   (3) Revenue Ruling.
   (4) Interpretive Regulation.
   (5) Legislative Regulation.
(6) Internal Revenue Code.

pp. 2-5 to 2-9, 2-25 to 2-27, and Exhibit 2.1

12. a. A Temporary Regulation, with 1 referring to the type of Regulation (i.e., income tax), 956 is the related Code section number, 2 is the subsection number, and T refers to temporary.

pp. 2-6 to 2-9

13. Dwain must consider several factors in deciding whether to take the dispute to the judicial system:

- How expensive will it be?
- How much time will be consumed?
- Does he have the temperament to engage in the battle?
- What is the probability of winning?

Once a decision is made to litigate the issue, the appropriate judicial forum must be selected.

- Tax Court judges have more expertise in tax matters.
- The tax deficiency need not be paid to litigate in the Tax Court. However, if Dwain loses, interest must be paid on any unpaid deficiency.
- If a trial by jury is preferred, the U.S. Tax Court is the appropriate forum.
- The tax deficiency must be paid before litigating in the District Court or the Court of Federal Claims.
- If an appeal to the Federal Circuit is important, Dwain should select the Court of Federal Claims.

A survey of the decisions involving the issues in dispute is appropriate. If a particular court has taken an unfavorable position, that court should be avoided.

pp. 2-10 to 2-15

14. a. No. There is no appeal from the Small Cases Division.

b. No. Deficiency cannot exceed $50,000.

c. Yes.

d. No. However, decisions are now published on the Tax Court’s website.
e. Yes.

f. Yes.

pp. 2-10 and 2-11

15. The main advantage of the U.S. Court of Federal Claims occurs when a taxpayer’s applicable Circuit Court previously has rendered an adverse decision. Such a taxpayer may select the U.S. Court of Federal Claims, since any appeal will be to the Federal Circuit.

One disadvantage of the U.S. Court of Federal Claims is that the tentative deficiency first must be paid before the Court will hear and decide the controversy.

The U.S. Court of Federal Claims is a trial court that usually meets in Washington, D.C. It has jurisdiction for any claim against the United States that is based on the Constitution, any Act of Congress, or any Regulation of an executive department.

Mr. Eddy Falls

Dear Mr. Falls:

You have three alternatives should you decide to pursue your $229,030 deficiency in the court system. One alternative is the U.S. Tax Court, the most popular forum. Some people believe that the Tax Court judges have more expertise in tax matters. The main advantage is that the U.S. Tax Court is the only trial court where the tax need not be paid prior to litigating the controversy. However, interest will be due on an unpaid deficiency. The interest rate varies from one quarter to the next as announced by the IRS.

One disadvantage of the U.S. Tax Court is the possible delay that might result before a case is decided. The length of delay depends on the Court calendar, which includes a schedule of locations where cases will be tried. Another disadvantage is being unable to have the case heard before a jury.

The major advantage of another alternative, the U.S. District Court, is the availability of a trial by jury. One disadvantage of a U.S. District Court is that the tentative tax deficiency first must be paid before the Court will hear and decide the controversy.

The Court of Federal Claims, the third alternative, is a trial court that usually meets in Washington, D.C. It has jurisdiction for any claim against the United States that is based on the Constitution, any Act of Congress, or any regulation of an executive department. The main advantage of the U.S. Court of Federal Claims occurs when a taxpayer’s applicable Circuit Court previously has rendered an adverse decision. Such a taxpayer may select the Court of Federal Claims, since any appeal instead will be to the Federal Circuit. One disadvantage of the Court of Federal Claims is that the tentative deficiency first must be paid before the Court will hear and decide the controversy.
I hope this information is helpful, and should you need more help, please contact me.

Sincerely,

Agnes Reynolds, CPA
Tax Partner

pp. 2-11, 2-12, Figure 2.3, and Concept Summary 2.1

17. The U.S. Tax Court hears only tax cases and is the most popular forum for tax cases. Some people suggest that the Tax Court has more expertise in tax matters. A taxpayer does not have to pay the tax deficiency assessed by the IRS before trial, but a taxpayer may deposit a cash bond to stop the running of interest. Appeals from a Tax Court are to the appropriate U.S. Court of Appeals. A taxpayer may not obtain a jury trial in the U.S. Tax Court. p. 2-12

18. See Figure 2.3 and Concept Summary 2.1.
   a. There is no appeal by either the taxpayer or the IRS from a decision of the Small Cases Division of the U.S. Tax Court. p. 2-10
   b. The first appeal would be to the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals. Further appeal would be to the U.S. Supreme Court. p. 2-12 and Figures 2.3 and 2.4
   c. Same as b. above. pp. 2-12, 2-14, and Figures 2.3 and 2.4
   d. The appeal would be to the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals and then to the U.S. Supreme Court. pp. 2-12, 2-14, and Figures 2.3 and 2.4

19. The term “petitioner” is a synonym for plaintiff, which refers to the party requesting action in a court. p. 2-11

20. Both the Code and the Supreme Court indicate that the Federal appellate courts are bound by findings of facts unless they are clearly erroneous. Thus, the role of appellate courts is limited to a review of the record of trial compiled by the trial courts. Thus, the appellate process usually involves a determination of whether the trial court applied the proper law in arriving at its decision. Rarely will an appellate court disturb a lower court’s fact-finding determination. p. 2-13

21. a. 10th.
   b. 8th.
   c. 9th.
   d. 5th.
   e. 7th.

22. The appropriate Circuit Court of Appeals for an appeal depends on where the litigation originated. For example, an appeal from Texas would go to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, or an appeal from Colorado would go to the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals. p. 2-12 and Figure 2.4
23. a. If the taxpayer chooses a U.S. District Court as the trial court for litigation, the U.S. District Court of Wyoming would be the forum to hear the case. Unless the prior decision has been reversed on appeal, one would expect the same court to follow its earlier holding. pp. 2-12 and 2-27

b. If the taxpayer chooses the U.S. Court of Federal Claims as the trial court for litigation, the decision that previously was rendered by this Court should have a direct bearing on the outcome. If the taxpayer selects a different trial court (i.e., the appropriate U.S. District Court or the U.S. Tax Court), the decision that was rendered by the U.S. Court of Federal Claims would be persuasive, but not controlling. It is, of course, assumed that the result that was reached by the U.S. Court of Federal Claims was not reversed on appeal. pp. 2-10, 2-14, and 2-27

c. The decision of a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals will carry more weight than will one that was rendered by a trial court. Since the taxpayer lives in California, however, any appeal from a U.S. District Court or the U.S. Tax Court would go to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals (see Figure 2.2). Although the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals might be influenced by what the Second Circuit Court of Appeals has decided, it is not compelled to follow such holding. pp. 2-10, 2-14, 2-27, and Figure 2.4

d. Because the U.S. Supreme Court is the highest appellate court, one can place complete reliance upon its decisions. Nevertheless, one should investigate any decision to see whether the Code has been modified with respect to the result that was reached. There also exists the rare possibility that the Court may have changed its position in a later decision. pp. 2-10, 2-15, 2-27, and Figure 2.3

e. When the IRS acquiesces to a decision of the U.S. Tax Court, it agrees with the result that was reached. As long as such acquiescence remains in effect, taxpayers can be assured that this represents the position of the IRS on the issue that was involved. Keep in mind, however, that the IRS can change its mind and can, at any time, withdraw the acquiescence and substitute a nonacquiescence. p. 2-16

f. The issuance of a nonacquiescence usually reflects that the IRS does not agree with the result that was reached by the U.S. Tax Court. Consequently, taxpayers are placed on notice that the IRS will continue to challenge the issue that was involved. p. 2-16

24. There is no automatic right of appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court. Appeal is by writ of certiorari. If the Court agrees to hear the dispute, it will grant the writ (Cert. granted). Most often, the highest court will deny jurisdiction (Cert. denied). p. 2-15

- Yvonne may begin with the index volumes of the available tax services: RIA, CCH, BNA Portfolios, etc.

- A key word search on an online service could be helpful—WESTLAW, LEXIS, CCH, and RIA Checkpoint.

- Yvonne may employ a key word search of a CD-ROM and browse through a tax service, IRS publications, etc. West Publishing, CCH, Kleinrock, and RIA offer CD-ROM products.

- Yvonne could consult CCH’s Federal Tax Articles to locate current appropriate articles written about child support payments. RIA’s Tax Service also has a topical ‘’Index to Tax Articles’’ section that is organized using the RIA paragraph index system.

- Yvonne may consult The Accounting & Tax Index which is available in three quarterly issues and a cumulative year-end volume covering all four quarters.

pp. 2-19 to 2-30

30. The primary purpose of tax planning is to reduce a taxpayer’s overall tax liability. This process can entail an avoidance, reduction, or postponement of the tax until the future.

This process does not mean that the course of action selected must produce the lowest possible tax under the circumstances. Legitimate business goals also must be considered.

There is nothing illegal or immoral about tax avoidance. A citizen has every legal right to arrange his or her affairs so as to keep the attendant taxes as low as possible. One is required to pay no more taxes than the law demands. There is no difference between a tax advisor’s reduction of a tax expense and a cost accountant’s reduction of a cost of operating a business.

31. Simulations on the CPA exam are small case studies designed to test a candidate’s tax knowledge and skills using real-life, work-related situations. Simulations include a four-function pop-up calculator, a blank spreadsheet with some elementary functionality, and authoritative excerpts that are necessary to complete the tax case study simulations (e.g., Internal Revenue Code and Federal tax forms).
